

Opened in Méribel last year, the elegant ski-in/ski-out Hôtel Le Coucou has been exclusively designed by Pierre Yovanovitch. Guests can anticipate traditional chalet styling and stunning panoramic views across the slopes.

The hotel features 55 rooms, including 39 suites, that have a terrace from which to enjoy the spectacular view. Two large independent chalets, connected to the hotel via an indoor corridor, offer perfect intimacy, while enjoying all the 5-star services of Le Coucou. Wood and stone contrast with wool and metal, glass and leather in the rooms and suites that are furnished with antique pieces.

Available for hire, two private chalets are spread over four floors and 590 square metres and can accommodate family or friends, with four bedrooms and four bathrooms and the services of an exclusively dedicated concierge.

They feature a fully fitted kitchen, a large cathedral living room with a vaulted ceiling and immense bay window for enjoying the beautiful views over the Méribel valley from the cocooning sofa, an open dining area, a ski room, an indoor pool and a private spa. Designed by Pierre Yovanovitch, the chalets' decor is unique and different to the hotel, with a layout and services designed to ensure shared moments of pure happiness.

The hotel is home to two restaurants – the world-renowned Beefbar by Riccardo Giraudi and Italian restaurant Bianca Neve – a Tata Harper spa, two swimming pools, one indoor and one outdoor, a yeti-themed kid's club and games room.

Le Coucou offers an ultra-luxe ski experience with unparalleled service with staff helping guests out of their boots after a long day of skiing. Nightly rates start from £440.
