La Grand Maison is the latest addition to the Maison Paribas portfolio of historical, boutique hotels built for the modern traveler. Combining their historic buildings dating back to the 19th century, interior architect Marie Drabinski restored the landmark property to its former splendor. La Grand Maison features opulent and eclectic, a historic restaurant, two bars, an indoor pool with a fitness center, and a spa, right in the heart of La Havre. The job of the architect was to create a space that is both historic and modern. At the corner of rue des Fichaux and rue de la Vierge, La Grand Maison celebrates the heritage of former Paris, the work of the arts, the history of the city, the room of a village and the luxury of a new and exciting place in the exciting district of La Grand Maison. We hope to see you there personally.

"This is a very emotional moment for us, the realization of a wonderful project that has been close to our hearts for several years. The first to take urban hotel of historical Parisian in Paris, we honor them for as long as we can remember. The Grand Maison embodies the commitment to all of our hotels, that subtle blend of elegance and warm hospitality that is common to all our addresses. But this new place is much more than a hotel, we have brought it to a destination in the heart of the city, where special moments, where there is always something going on. A unique place in time."

Shoubali, a joyfully festive spirit.

In Bouzali, "my little darling" in Yiddish, the affectionate code name used by Eastern European grandmothers to talk about those they love. A whole state of mind for the restaurant, the bar, the winter garden and the terrace, not forgetting the mysterious cabaret. The beautiful team of JLM Group (Batsigari, Shabour, Toles, Shohi...) partner of the Pariente family, has taken up the challenge of offering a new experience which promises to make Paris vibrate with an energy as whimsical as it is generous. In Bouzali, the creativity of starred Israeli chef Assaf Grant drives to revisit the Ashkenazi culinary tradition of his childhood for the first time. Adorned with irresistible colours and flavours, mixed with an eclectic modernity, the dishes are delicate and delicious. A gastronomic journey to an unknown land on the borders of Central Europe and the Mediterranean.
