SOPHIE AND JOE GET MARRIED...AGAIN!

SOPHIE TURNER AND JOE JONAS JET OFF TO FRANCE FOR THEIR LAVISH 'REAL' WEDDING - AND THIS TIME FAMILY AND FRIENDS ARE INVITED!

After tying the knot last May in an impromptu Vegas ceremony, Sophie Turner and Joe Jonas celebrated becoming husband and wife for the second time last week.

In Joe's words, their Vegas bash meant 'friends, Elvis and ring pops', so this much more considered affair in the south of France was sure to please both of their families.

From the festival theme and the beautiful venue, to a menu of fried chicken and a Bollywood playlist, we round up everything you need to know about their week-long celebrations...

THE VENUES

The wedding party checked into Hôtel Crillon le Brave during the pre-wedding week, where they enjoyed breathtaking Provence views and roll-top couples' baths. The hotel's deluxe suite will set you back £890 a night. On Thursday they travelled to Château de Tourreau in Sarriens, which sleeps 29. The château, dating back to 1612, boasts an infinity pool, tennis courts and beautiful lavender fields. Sophie was pictured on the grand steps, greeting her guests with warm hugs and glasses of Aperol Spritz. The following evening, she and Joe spruced up and headed back to Hôtel Crillon le Brave for what was believed to be their rehearsal dinner (top).

The château's master suite, in which Sophie and Joe probably spent their wedding night, has its own Jacuzzi and terrace. There is also a chapel (above) in the grounds where they could have said 'I do' once again. ▶

THE THEME

The couple are believed to have hosted a Glastonbury-themed bash, with a source revealing to us that the food hailed from both the US and India. 'Sophie has fallen in love with Indian food thanks to getting to know Priyanka and her family,' they said. Rumour has it that there was also fried chicken, grits and barbecue ribs, all specialities of the USA that Sophie has learned to love. The couple ensured Sophie's English family felt included with a game of rugby too. The Jonas Brothers are believed to have performed while a DJ played Bollywood hits and Britpop as guests danced the night away. 'Sophie and Joe want to have a huge party,' revealed a source ahead of the event. Lucky guests are rumoured to have each been given a massage gift certificate as their wedding favour, as well as a mini replica of the seven-tier wedding cake to take home.

IN SEINE PARTY

Before flying to the south of France, the wedding party enjoyed some time in Paris, where the couple threw a boat party along the picturesque Seine for friends and family. The group danced and sipped champagne on the boat's deck, no doubt excitedly discussing the celebrations to come. While bride Sophie looked casual in a white T-shirt and skinny jeans, Priyanka dressed up in a flamenco-style maxi. Already feeling the love, Sophie shared a loved-up snap kissing her man in front of the iconic Eiffel Tower during their mini break in the city.

THE GUEST LIST

Sophie's BFF Maisie Williams cut short her Seychelles holiday to jet to France as she played a special role on her big day. 'She's my maid of honour! One of two,' Sophie said in a recent interview. Other bridesmaids are thought to have included Sophie's sisters-in-law Priyanka Chopra and Danielle Jones – the trio have a close relationship, even calling themselves the 'J sisters'. While Vegas was strictly a friends affair, it's thought the focus was very much on family in France. A source close to the couple exclusively told us: 'There are still some hurt feelings about the Vegas surprise, but Joe's brothers and their wives love Sophie so much, as do his parents. They basically pretended that this was the real wedding and that the other didn't count.'

Joe himself revealed that when his parents found out he'd wed Sophie in Vegas via an Instagram live stream from DJ Diplo, they were understandably upset. 'The internet told them! I'm still trying to make it better,' he sheepishly admitted. Sophie's mum Sally was more laid-back about events, saying: 'Sophie did call me before. She said: "Mum, I'm getting married in Vegas." I am absolutely delighted and so is my husband Andrew.'

THE HEN DOS

Party-loving Sophie celebrated her hen do by taking a group of her best girl friends to Benidorm, Prague and Berlin via private jet. The gang, which included her Game Of Thrones co-star Maisie Williams, donned colourful wigs and sipped alcopops as they partied their way across Europe. Sophie's pre-wedding celebration in France was a more sedate affair, which saw her head out for dinner with a gaggle of her nearest and dearest including sister-in-law Priyanka. OK!
