DRESS UP!

If here will you be for the holidays?

I will be heading to the Cayman Islands to stay at the newly opened Palm Heights Residences for Christmas and New Year.

If that will you be packing?

I'm a really light packer, even for a two-week holiday – I only ever take things that I'm sure I'll wear. I'll pack a bikini for every day, they take up almost no room in a suitcase (my go-to is always Eres); an oversized cotton shirt as a beach cover-up; sandals by The Row that work by day and night; and a few simple evening options that won't scrunch up on a long-haul flight.

If that are you most looking forward to?

From breakfast to the bed sheets, I adore the comforts of hotel life – I would live in a hotel if I could. Also, I'm excited to swim in the Caribbean Sea with my two-year-old daughter, Dree.

WHAT DO YOU WANT FOR CHRISTMAS?

The same as every year: something gold and/or sparkly, please. And, for when I return home, a Ronan Bouroullec painting on my wall.

Away for the holidays

On the trail of adventure or in total tranquillity, how does a Vogue editor spend Christmas?

Clockwise from above: goggles, £435, 3 Moncler Grenoble. Knitted coat, £685, Lauren Manoogian, at Net-a-Porter.com. Tray, £950, Bloc Studios, at Monologue london.com. Ski jacket, £1,238, Aztech Mountain, at Matchesfashion.com. Bag, to order, Chanel

WHAT WILL YOU BE PACKING?

Cosy knits from Lauren Manoogian, and a jacket from Aztech Mountain (Mugler's Casey Cadwallader is head of design).

If here will you be for the holidays?

I'll be in Les Trois Vallées, France, for New Year's Eve; a dose of icy alpine air always seems to sort me out after the excesses of Christmas. I'm looking forward to a spell at Le Coucou in Méribel, a new hotel designed by Pierre Yovanovitch with a delicious-looking spa; and a stop-off at Le Refuge de Solaise in Val d'Isère (far right) – only accessible via ski lift, it promises superlative stargazing and fresh powder before breakfast.

If that do you hope to open on Christmas Day?

My ongoing project to convert my home into a concept store requires the addition of an onyx tray.

How do you relax?

An evening soak after a celebratory kir royale on the last run home. I eat crisps in the bath and watch all the movies I missed out on in December.

How are you spending New Year's Eve?

Hopefully swathed in Paco Rabanne, twirling a fondue fork, swinging Chanel's cable-car minaudière from my shoulder and not talking about Brexit. >
